Dirty Spoons

A band of miscreants and juvenile geriatrics. Found arsing around and turning people to drink wherever they play.

The Dirty Spoons are an energetic folk band, taking their influences from a range of styles and genres and making the music their own. From Old Crow Medicine Show, to Nick Cave and The Bad Seeds, from The Pogues to Kris Kristofferson, each band is paid homage to by this enthusiastic group. But it's their own personal journey that has really melded them into a cohesive unit.

Each member brings a different level of character and mood to the music, giving Dirty Spoons a wonderfully rich and well-rounded tone that makes their sound addictive and charming to all.

The band are constantly touring, playing festivals and gigs around the country.
